A wide-angle photograph of a modern rooftop terrace. The terrace is paved with large, light-brown rectangular stone tiles. A pergola structure with white metal beams and a white fabric canopy is partially visible on the left. In the center, there are two square skylights with dark frames. To the right, a yellow-painted wall runs along the edge of the terrace. In the background, a dense urban landscape of Rome is visible, featuring terracotta roofs, a large dome, and a classical building with columns. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds.
